The fundamental British values of democracy, rule of law, individual liberty and mutual respect are embedded in the Early Years Foundation Stage Curriculum.

These core values are modelled for the children within the setting to see and opportunities provided for children to individually develop these core values. The British Values are:

Democracy: making decisions together

As part of the focus on self-confidence and self-awareness as cited in Personal, Social and Emotional Development: Staff encourage children to see their role in the bigger picture, encouraging children to know their views count, value each other's views and values and talk about their feelings, for example when they do or do not need help. When appropriate demonstrate democracy in action, for example, children sharing views on what the theme of their role play area could be, or choosing which story the group would like by "voting".

Staff support the decisions that children make and provide activities that involve turn-taking, sharing and collaboration. This is a huge part of the nursery curriculum, and something which most children need support with. Children should be given opportunities to develop enquiring minds in an atmosphere where questions are valued.

Rule of law: understanding rules matter

As cited in Personal Social and Emotional development as part of the focus on managing feelings and behaviour:

Staff ensure that children understand their own and others' behaviour and its consequences, and learn to distinguish right from wrong.

Staff collaborate with children to create the rules and the codes of behaviour, for example, to agree the rules about tidying up and ensure that all children understand rules apply to everyone.

Rules often need to be reinforced, and this can be in the form of positive role models eg "Good tidying, Suzy".

Individual liberty: freedom for all

As part of the focus on self-confidence & self-awareness and people & communities as cited in Personal Social and Emotional development and Understanding the World:

Children should develop a positive sense of themselves. Staff provide opportunities for children to develop their self-knowledge, self-esteem and increase their confidence in their own abilities, for example through allowing children to take risks on an obstacle course, mixing colours, talking about their experiences and learning.

Staff should encourage a range of experiences that allow children to explore the language of feelings and responsibility, reflect on their differences and understand we are free to have different opinions, for example in a small group discussion, using props such as pictures or puppets.

Mutual respect and tolerance: treat others as you want to be treated

As part of the focus on, managing feelings & behaviour and making relationships, people & communities as cited in Personal Social and Emotional development and Understanding the World:

The nursery has an ethos of inclusivity and tolerance where views, faiths, cultures and races are valued and children are engaged with the wider community. We celebrate festivals from different faiths and have visitors from the community.

Children acquire a tolerance and appreciation of and respect for their own and other cultures; know about similarities and differences between themselves and others and among families, faiths, communities, cultures and traditions and share and discuss practices, celebrations and experiences.

Staff encourage and explain the importance of tolerant behaviours such as sharing and respecting other's opinions and ideas.

Staffs promote diverse attitudes and challenge stereotypes, for example, sharing stories that reflect and value the diversity of children's experiences and providing resources and activities that challenge gender, cultural and racial stereotyping.
